ABOUT EDMONTON

01

EDMONTON'S HISTORY

The first people to live in the Edmonton area were the First Nations people including the Cree, Nakoda Sioux, Blackfoot, and many others. The name for Edmonton in the Cree language is amiskwaciwâskahikan, which means Beaver Hills House (the short form is amiskwacyi—pronounced amisk-wa-chee).

For thousands of years the First Nations people have gathered on the banks of the North Saskatchewan River in Amiskwacyi (Edmonton) to hunt, fish, trade, and have cultural celebrations. In First Nations' culture, the relationship that people have to people, plants, animals, water, and the earth is very important.

In 1795, the Hudson's Bay Company built Fort Edmonton to bring the Fur Trade to the area. Through the Fur Trade, First Nations people exchanged furs and skins from animals (like the beaver) for supplies like rifles and tools from the European traders.

Today, you can still find the beaver, which is Canada's national animal, living in Edmonton's river valley.

Canada became independent from England in 1867, and the new Canadian government began to sign Treaties with the First Nations peoples of Western Canada. On August 21, 1877, the First Nations peoples in the Fort Edmonton district entered into Treaty Six with the Canadian government. Treaty Six covers the central portion of Alberta and Saskatchewan. In Alberta, Treaty Six includes 18 First Nations of Cree, Nakoda Sioux, Saulteaux, and Dene heritage.

The federal government and First Nations had different ideas of what the Treaty meant. The government saw it as ending Aboriginal claims to the land. The First Nations consider it a sacred agreement creating a Nation-to-Nation relationship that will continue "...as long as the sun shines, the grass grows, and the rivers flow..."

The City of Edmonton entered into a Memorandum of Cooperation and Dialogue with the Confederacy of Treaty Six First Nations in 2012, and a similar Memorandum of Shared Recognition and Cooperation with the Metis Nation of Alberta in 2013. These memoranda promise to increase dialogue and collaboration, to celebrate culture and history, and address the issues that affect all people who call Edmonton home.

Since changes to the Canadian Constitution Act in 1982 the Canadian government officially recognizes Aboriginal peoples as First Nations, Métis (descendants of First Nations and French or Scottish Europeans), and Inuit. Today, Edmonton has the second largest urban Aboriginal population in Canada, and is home to many other Aboriginal peoples from across Alberta and Canada, including other First Nations, Métis, and Inuit peoples.

By 1900, a small city had grown around Fort Edmonton. In 1904, Edmonton officially became a city, and one year later in 1905 Edmonton became the capital of the new province of Alberta.

Today there are more than one million people living in the Edmonton area. Our clean and friendly city is a great place to live, work, and raise a family. Edmonton has a strong economy and there are many opportunities for employment, business, sports, recreation, and culture.

MOVING AROUND EDMONTON

STREETS AND AVENUES

In Edmonton, most roads are numbered. Avenues run east and west while streets run north and south. The address will tell you where to look. For example, 6812 – 101 Avenue is at 68 Street (the first two numbers of the address) and 101 Avenue.

Newer areas have named roads. An Edmonton street map will be helpful in these areas. You can purchase a map at a gas station or convenience store or find one on the internet. Online maps such as Google maps can help you find a location and even get directions for getting from one place to another.

Website: googlemaps.com

PUBLIC TRANSIT

The City of Edmonton buses and trains can move you around the city. Edmonton Transit Service (ETS) buses serve most areas of the city and connect to outlying areas such as Beaumont, Edmonton Garrison, Fort Saskatchewan, Leduc, Spruce Grove, St. Albert, and Strathcona County (Sherwood Park). The light rail transit (LRT) has two lines that run north and south through the city. The Capital Line runs from Clareview station (48 Street and 139 Avenue) to Century Park station (111 Street and 23 Avenue). The Metro Line runs from NAIT (Princess Elizabeth Avenue and 108 Street) to Century Park station on Monday through Saturday, and to Health Sciences/Jubilee station (114 Street and 83 Avenue) on Sundays.

For fares, schedules, routes or to learn how to use public transit, call 311 and press 1 for transit information or visit website: takeets.com.

TRANSIT FARES

You can pay to ride public transit using cash, transit tickets, or a transit pass depending on your needs. An ETS single fare (paid by cash or transit ticket) allows you to travel on several buses and trains within one-and-a-half- hours. If you have to take more than one bus, or transfer from a bus to an LRT train within that time period, ask the driver for a transfer.

MONTHLY TRANSIT (BUS & TRAIN) PASSES

Monthly passes and ticket books are available; discounted annual passes are available for adults and those with low incomes or disabilities. For details and current fares, go to:

Website: takeets.com

If you ride the LRT (train) you must have your monthly transit pass, transit ticket, or valid transfer with you at all times. A transit ticket must be punched at one of the orange ticket validators found near the entrance to the proof of payment area in the LRT station.

There are many useful tools on the ETS website to help you plan your trip on ETS buses and LRT trains. You can track your bus anywhere, anytime from your computer or mobile devices using third-party apps and ETS tools. For more information, visit website: takeETS.com/realtime.

BUS LINK

Each bus stop and LRT station has a number noted on the bus stop sign, which you can also find on the website. Call Buslink at 780-496-1600 or text 31100 and enter the stop number, to see arrival times.

Phone: 780-496-1600

DISABLED ADULT TRANSIT SERVICE (DATS)

DATS buses are for people who have mobility challenges. If you require a wheel chair or walker in order to move around, you can schedule a DATS bus to pick you up and drive you to where you are going and back again. You must register in advance for this service. DATS is operated by Edmonton Transit Service (ETS).

Phone: 780-496-4567

What You Need to Drive in Edmonton

To drive a car, truck, or other motor vehicle you must have:

- a valid driver's license,
- vehicle insurance, and
- vehicle registration.

You must carry each of these items with you when you are driving.

ALBERTA OPERATOR'S PERMIT (DRIVER'S LICENSE)

There are different classes of driver's licenses depending on the type of vehicle and/or purpose for driving. If you want to drive a taxi, passenger van, or emergency vehicle for a job you will need a different class of license than you will need for just driving a personal vehicle. New residents have up to 90 days to exchange their driver's license for an Alberta license.

To get a driver's license, you must go to a registry centre. For a list of registries contact:

Service Alberta

Phone: 780-310-0000 (toll-free anywhere in Alberta)

780-427-2711 (outside of Alberta)

Website: servicealberta.ca > Drivers/ Vehicles > Driver's Licence

VEHICLE INSURANCE

There are different types of insurance depending on whether the vehicle is for personal, service, or business use. Ask your insurance company what kind of insurance you need. There are many insurance providers in Alberta including Alberta Motor Association (AMA), banks and credit unions, and private insurance companies. Find a list of insurance companies at:

Website: airb.alberta.ca > For Drivers > Insurance Providers

ALBERTA VEHICLE REGISTRATION

You must have a driver's license to get vehicle insurance, and you must have vehicle insurance to get vehicle registration. New residents have up to 90 days to register non-commercial vehicles from another province.

You can register your vehicle at any Alberta Registry centre. For a complete list of registries in Edmonton visit:

Website: servicealberta.ca > Registries

DRIVER TRAINING

To get your driver's license you may need to take driver training. There are many private driver training programs in Edmonton. To find one, you can search "driver training in Edmonton" on the Internet.

The Alberta Motor Association (AMA)

AMA is a very useful organization for motorists. It has driver education programs, Alberta driver's license testing, vehicle and home insurance, a registry, and also provides emergency roadside assistance, free maps, and other services. You must become an AMA member to use its services.

Phone: 780-430-7700

Website: ama.ab.ca

For more information about driving in Edmonton visit Transportation Alberta

Website: transportation.alberta.ca > Drivers and Vehicles

WINTER DRIVING

Winter driving can be very challenging for motorists. Conditions are icy and slippery and it is very easy for drivers to lose control of their vehicles. You must slow down, give yourself more time to get to your destination, leave more space between you and the car in front of you, and install winter tires on your vehicle. Winter tires will help stop your vehicle from sliding and getting stuck in deep snow. You might consider taking a winter driving course.

For information on driving courses and winter driving safety visit:

Alberta Motor Association (AMA).

Website: ama.ab.ca

IMPORTANT INFORMATION ABOUT DRIVING IN ALBERTA

Laws – Drivers must know the rules of driving in Alberta. Drivers who commit traffic violations can be penalized and fined by police, sheriffs, and peace officers. Driver handbooks that explain traffic laws are available from any registry centre or at www.transportation.alberta.ca > Driver Guides.

Seatbelts – Alberta law requires everyone to wear a seatbelt in a vehicle. Children who weigh less than 18kg (40 lbs) must be seated in an approved and properly installed child safety seat.

Alcohol – It is illegal to consume or have an open container of alcohol in a vehicle, or to drive while you are impaired by alcohol. Drinking and driving is a serious offense in Canada. You can be fined or lose your driver's licence for any of these offenses.

Distracted Driving – It is illegal to use a cell phone or other hand held electronic device while driving in Alberta. To talk on your cell phone while driving, you must have a hands free system in your car. Distracted driving also includes things like reading printed materials like books or magazines; writing, printing or sketching; and personal grooming like combing your hair, applying makeup, or brushing your teeth.

Emergency Vehicles – When a police car, ambulance or fire truck has its lights and siren on, move to the right side of road and stop as soon as you are able.

TRAFFIC CIRCLES

Edmonton has a number of traffic circles.

CYCLING

Cycling (biking) is a great option to get around Edmonton. The City encourages its citizens to try cycling as it is an affordable and healthy way to travel.

The City of Edmonton has a number of on- and off-street bike lanes and paths to help you explore the city, with more bike lanes planned for the future.

Before you set out, be sure to review the rules of the road and get to know traffic signals and signs. To learn about bike safety, see bike maps and get more information about biking in Edmonton:

Phone: 311

Website: edmonton.ca/bikeedmonton

WALKING

Walkability adds strength and enjoyment to the fabric of community life. While out walking, we meet our neighbours, get some exercise, visit local shops, and enjoy public spaces. We also become the “eyes on the street” that enhance safety and reduce crime. The City of Edmonton promotes walking for health, fitness and enjoyment. To get some ideas about how you can walk more for your health, fitness and enjoyment, walking maps are available at your local public library or go to Walkable Edmonton at:

Website: edmonton.ca/walk

LIVING IN EDMONTON

06

HOUSING

Housing in Edmonton includes single-family homes, apartments, condominiums and townhouses.

BUYING A HOME

If you want to buy a home, you may find it useful to call a real estate agent.

Search for Real Estate Agents on the Edmonton Real Estate Board website: ereb.com > Buying a Home > Finding a Realtor

*When you buy a home in Edmonton you will have to pay property taxes. See Property Taxes under Managing Money on page 24.

RENTING A HOME

To find rental housing, check the classified ads in local newspapers, search the internet, or look for "For Rent" signs posted on buildings.

When you find a place to rent, you may have to complete an application and pay a security deposit equal to one month of rent. The security deposit is money that protects both you and the owner or landlord. After you pay the security deposit, the landlord cannot rent that residence to anyone else. The deposit will be kept by the owner until you move out, and can be used by the owner to pay for any damages to the property at that time.

Ask to do a property inspection report with the owner or landlord before you move in and when you move out. Get copies of the reports. They will be used to see if the property is in the same condition as when you moved in and how much of the damage deposit will be held back to pay for damages.

Get a receipt for your security deposit and for each monthly rent payment. Pay your rent on time or you could be evicted and have to move out.

If you and your landlord have disagreements or you have questions about your rights and responsibilities as a renter, contact the Landlord and Tenant Advisory Board, an organization that helps to settle conflicts between landlords and tenants.

PROPERTY TAXES

If you own your own home, the City will assess your property to determine your share of the total property taxes. The City needs property taxes to provide services and infrastructure, as established in the annual budget. Taxes account for approximately half of all revenue that the City receives. They help pay for various City services such as:

- police and fire protection,
- road maintenance and snow clearing,
- parks and swimming pools, and
- public transit and neighborhood infrastructure.

You will receive your property tax assessment in January each year. You will have to pay your taxes at the end of June or set up a monthly payment plan with the City. For more information on property taxes, see: edmonton.ca/propertytaxes

FEDERAL INCOME TAX RETURNS

YOU MUST FILE A PERSONAL INCOME TAX RETURN WITH THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT BY APRIL 30 EACH YEAR.

DOGS, CATS & OTHER PETS

It is common in Canada for people to have pets in their homes. The City of Edmonton requires all cats and dogs over six months old to be licensed annually, according to Bylaw #13145.

It is important to make sure all pets are looked after in their homes. If you find a cat outside without its owner, you can take it to the Animal Care & Control Centre (13550 - 163 St. NW). If you find a dog without its owner, phone 311 to have it picked up. Pets will be kept for a limited amount of time for their owners to pick up. The pet owner is responsible for all related fines and fees. If a healthy pet is not picked up by the owner within the time limit, the Animal Care & Control Centre will transfer it to an organization for adoption.

Dogs can run free in a fenced yard. In all other places outside they must be on a leash, unless they are in an off-leash dog park.

Pet owners must pick up and dispose of any animal waste left by their pets and are subject to a fine if they don't.

For more information on bylaws regarding dogs, cats, and other pets:

Phone: 311

Website: edmonton.ca/pets

Edmonton has one of the best recycling and waste treatment programs in the world.

The City recycles paper, glass, cardboard, metals and plastics. If you live in a house, duplex or fourplex, use a blue bag for your recyclables and it will be collected by the city along with your household garbage. If you live in an apartment, condo or town house, you can participate in the blue bin program. You can also take recyclables to one of many recycling depots located around the city.

For your recycling collection schedule and the addresses of recycling depots:

LAW & HUMAN RIGHTS

CANADIAN LEGAL SYSTEM

People who live in Canada are expected to learn and obey the local laws. In Canada, there are three types of laws: criminal laws, civil laws, and municipal bylaws.

Criminal law protects all members of society. It covers many offences including theft, murder, assault, trafficking and possession of illegal drugs, fraud, and other crimes. In Canada, when you are charged with a crime you are presumed innocent until proven guilty by a court of law. The right to a fair trial is very important in Canadian law. If you are convicted of a crime, you will receive a criminal record and have certain restrictions placed upon you. In a criminal court case, the criminal justice system will pay the court costs including that of an interpreter if one is required.

Civil law settles disputes or arguments between private individuals, organizations, or businesses about such things as property ownership and contracts. In a civil court case, individuals pay the court costs.

Municipal bylaws are local laws that keep our communities safe, orderly, and clean. Smoking, snow removal, parking, pet licensing, messy yards, licensing, jay-walking, zoning, and paying for public transit are just some of the things controlled by city bylaws. If you break a bylaw, you will have to pay a fine to the City.

Notary Publics

Notary publics are people (often lawyers) who are legally authorized to administer oaths, and to witness and authenticate documents. There are many notary publics in Edmonton. To find one, search Edmonton Notary Publics on the internet.

HUMAN RIGHTS

In Canada, all people are considered equal. The Alberta Human Rights, Citizenship and Multicultural Act protects Albertans against discrimination in any manner based on race, religion, color, gender, age, ancestry, place of origin, marital status, family status, source of income, physical ability, mental ability or sexual orientation. If you feel you have been treated unfairly based on any of the reasons above you can contact:

FAMILY LAW

In Canada, there are laws that exist to protect people from relationship violence and other forms of abuse which may occur within a family, against spouses, children or seniors. The different forms of abuse include physical, sexual, emotional and financial abuse. If you suspect someone is being abused, you are required by law to report it to the police.

WINTER LIVING IN EDMONTON

EDMONTON WINTER CITY STRATEGY

Edmonton is a winter city, so it is very important that you know how to dress properly and be prepared for the winter. Even though it gets cold, there are many winter festivals and public outdoor activities and recreation opportunities so you can enjoy winter. The City works hard to make sure that Edmonton is a great place to live even when it's cold.

Website: wintercityedmonton.ca

Winter in Edmonton lasts for up to 6 months of the year. The first snowfall is usually in late October/early November and winter lasts until late March/early April. The average winter temperature is -10.4°C but can go below -30°C .

POPULAR WINTER ACTIVITIES IN EDMONTON

Indoor and outdoor ice skating

Downhill and cross-country skiing and snowboarding

Sledding and tobogganing

Visiting one of the many festivals

Visiting a Recreation Centre

WEATHER FORECAST

Knowing about the winter weather in Edmonton and dressing properly for it can help you to enjoy the many outdoor winter activities the city has to offer.

The Weather Network and Environment Canada both have websites where you can check the weather and weather trends. In addition, The Weather Network has a twenty-four hour television channel on cable television.

Website: theweathernetwork.com

Website: weatheroffice.gc.ca

You can also find weather reports in the daily newspapers and on television and radio newscasts.

WIND CHILL

You will hear two temperatures on weather reports in Canada in the winter. One is the temperature and the other is called “wind chill.” “Wind chill” is the temperature outside with the wind chill factor included. For example, the actual temperature may be -10°C , but with wind chill it is -20°C . This means that outside it will feel like -20°C , even though the thermometer reads -10°C . So, the “wind chill” temperature is the one that we pay more attention to in winter.

DAYLIGHT SAVINGS TIME

Edmonton is a northern city located at latitude 53 and longitude 113. It is referred to as the “Gateway to the North.” Its geographical location closer to the top of the world means that we have a large difference in the amount of daylight hours we receive in the different seasons of the year.

Daylight Savings Time is a way of making better use of the daylight in the evenings by setting the clocks forward one hour during the longer days of summer, and back again in the fall. Radio and TV news remind residents when it’s time to change the clocks, usually in March-April (“Spring forward” when we lose an hour) and in October-November (“Fall back” when we gain an hour).

MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT

ELECTED OFFICIALS

To find out who your elected representatives are and how to contact them:

City of Edmonton – City Councillors

Phone: 311

Website: edmonton.ca/council

City Council is the municipal or local government of the City of Edmonton.

Edmonton's municipal government is made up of 13 elected officials: the Mayor and twelve Councillors. They are elected every four years. One Councillor is elected in each of Edmonton's 12 electoral divisions called wards. To see what ward you live in, see edmonton.ca/wardmaps

City Council appoints a City Manager to oversee the City of Edmonton Administration (all city employees). The City Manager ensures City Administration follows City Council direction in delivering services to residents.

City Council and its committees usually meet several times each month. These meetings are open to the public and members of the public can register to speak at committee meetings.

BYLAWS

Under the Constitution of Canada, the Government of Canada makes laws for the entire country. Provincial and territorial governments make laws that apply only in their own province or territory and each city makes bylaws that address issues such as snow removal, messy yards, parking, animal control and licensing.

If you have a bylaw complaint about noise, a dog running loose or barking, or any other bylaw issue, you can contact the city.

CIVIC ELECTIONS AND VOTING

To vote in a municipal (civic) election, you must be a Canadian citizen, at least 18 years old, live in Alberta for six months immediately before and on election day, and have your residence in Edmonton on election day. The right to vote and elect your leaders is fundamental to any democratic society. It is a way to let your elected official know what issues are important to you and your family. Make your voice heard by voting in civic, provincial and federal elections. To find your area of the city and where you will vote, see the ward map.

CIVIC BOARDS AND AGENCIES

The City of Edmonton operates a number of boards and agencies to deal with matters of importance to residents. Civic boards deal with things like animal or pet control and development appeals relating to land and land use. Members of the public can apply to be on a board. Board members are then selected by City Council based upon who they feel will do the best job.
